CLASS ALLEGATIONS

31. This action is properly maintainable as a collective action pursuant to the Fair Labor Standards Act, 29 U.S.C. 216(b), and as a Class Action under Article 9 of the New York Civil Practice Law and Rules and Rule 23 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure.

32. This action is brought on behalf of Plaintiffs and a class consisting of similarly situated employees who performed work for Defendants from May 2006 to the present.

33. The putative class is so numerous that joinder of all members is impracticable. The size of the putative class is believed to be in excess of ten employees. In addition, the names of all potential members of the putative class are not known.

34. The questions of law and fact common to the putative class predominate over any questions affecting only individual members. These questions of law and fact include, but are not limited to, whether the Defendants failed to pay minimum wages, overtime wages, spread of hours pay, and provide proper paystubs. The claims of the Named Plaintiffs are typical of the claims of the putative class.

35. The Named Plaintiffs and putative class were all subject to Defendants' policies and willful practices of failing to pay minimum wages, overtime wages, spread of hours compensation, and failing to provide proper paystubs.

36. Plaintiffs and their counsel will fairly and adequately protect the interests of the putative class. Plaintiffs have retained counsel experienced in complex wage and hour class action litigation.

37. A class action is superior to other available methods for the fair and efficient adjudication of this controversy. The individual Plaintiffs and putative class lack the financial resources to adequately prosecute separate lawsuits against Defendants. A class action will also prevent unduly duplicative litigation resulting from inconsistent judgments pertaining to the Defendants' policies.

56. Although Plaintiff and the other members of the putative class frequently worked shifts in excess of ten hours per day from start to finish, defendants willfully failed to pay them one additional hour's pay at the minimum wage for each day they worked more than ten hours in violation of the New York Labor Law and the supporting New York State Department of Labor regulations.
